WINNIPEG, Man., June 22.—Announcement was made this morning that the government had recommended that the powers of the royal commission be extended to take in the charges brought by C. P. Fullerton, K.C., as representing the fourteen private Conservative members, of trafficking between the late and present cabinet ministers. Before the commission opened this afternoon, the attorney-general, Hon. Mr. Hudson, received a letter from Mr. Fullerton asking that another commission be appointed as he might wish to put one or more of the present commissioners to investigate these new charges. If they do not, it is believed the government will at once appoint another commission. It appears to be the collective opinion of the cabinet that no delay shall be permitted in opening up the charges laid by Mr. Fullerton.

The present commissioners have been notified of this, and the government it is understood will leave it to them whether they want to proceed.

Coldwell Again on Stand.
Hon. G. R. Coldwell was on the stand again this afternoon, and J. H. Coyne, the crown counsel, continued his line of questions in regard to the caissons and steel contracts. But nothing sensational developed, the examiner reiterating his statement that the change from piles to caissons was not decided until after the contract was let.

will say editorially tomorrow that help from Ottawa is not needed, and that Manitoba is capable of doing her own house cleaning without turning over the job to a new commission in whose appointment Hon. Robert Rogers would have a hand.

The Part of Fullerton.
As to the part of Mr. Fullerton, the Free Press says: "When Mr. Fullerton bobbed up before the royal commission with his little speech as representative and spokesman of those incorruptible patriots, the fourteen private members, it was not his first appearance before this judicial body. When he appeared before the commission at an early date, whom do you suppose he represented? Why, he represented Tom Kelly, Mr. Fuller,

In another editorial the Free Press says that more and more attention is being attracted by the part played by the Canadian Northern railway in the drama. After saying that the C. N. R. general counsel, F. H. Phippen, came here ostensibly as the lawyer for Thos. Kelly and Sons, the contractors, the Free Press continues as tractor, the Free Press continues as follows: "It is however, pretty generally believed that Mr. Phippen is here as the legal generalissimo of all the people who are in trouble as a result of this enquiry. It is also generally believed that it was the Hon. Robert Rogers who was instrumental in getting Mr. Phippen for this purpose.¹²

By Bulletin Leased Wire.

MONTREAL, June 22.—The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry which from the start has been in the thickest of the fighting losing heavily, has now been ordered to leave and

Lieut. Walton has been wounded twice. It is from the late King Edward's famous "Osborne House," on the Isle of Wight, that he writes. After mentioning personal matters, he said: "We have some Canadians with us in camp. I admire them, every one. The remnants of the P.P.C.L.I. joined us, forming a composite battalion."
